[Speed up blood circulation] - The far-infrared rays produced by the far-infrared fiber itself are close to the vibration frequency of the cells and molecules in the human body. After the "life light wave" penetrates into the body, it will cause the resonance of the atoms and molecules of the human cells. Through resonance absorption, friction between the molecules generates heat. Thermal response promotes the rise of deep subcutaneous temperature, dilates the capillaries, and accelerates blood circulation.

[Enhance immune activation cells] - Far-infrared fiber is beneficial to clear vascular accumulations and harmful substances in the body, remove obstacles that hinder metabolism, resurrect tissues, and achieve the effect of activating tissue cells and enhancing the activity of the immune system.
